Dundee Museum Auction To Offer Military Vehicles

Michigan's military history is up on the auction block.

Two live public auctions are scheduled for April to sell the museum contents, many of which were made in the state, belonging to the late Michael Yeck, purveyor of the Dundee Motor Pool Museum.

The first auction is Wednesday, April 17, at 10:30 a.m. and will feature antique to modern tools and shop equipment.

On Saturday, April 27, at 10:30 a.m., the auction dubbed, "The Grand Finale," will feature 40 military vehicles and classic cars, along with thousands of military relics.

The former Mayor of Dundee, Yeck died last August. He was instrumental in establishing the Veterans Memorial in Dundee and a long-standing member of the Moore-Lenz-Wakefield VFW Post 6462.

In 1947, he established Yeck Manufacturing. Years later, he gained national prominence when he established Yeck Antique Firearms and ultimately the Dundee Motor Pool Museum, which attracted visitors from all around the United States to view his enormous collection of military vehicles and memorabilia dating back to the Civil War.

Yeck served in the U.S. Army during World War II and was one of the first men to volunteer for the Selective Service in 1940 and had expected to serve only about two years. But the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, changed that. He served out the rest of the war, including participating in D-Day, June 6, 1944, when the Allies invaded Nazi-controlled France.

During the initial part of the invasion, Yeck was aboard a boat that was towing an artificial harbor – a 200-foot-long, 30-foot-high barge that was supposed to be used as a breakwater to make it easier for troops to disembark on the beach. Yeck's boat was hit and sank while the barge broke up.

Yeck and his crewmates treaded water until they were picked up by another boat. On the way back to England, he was ordered to go to a liberty ship – a cargo vessel – to operate a floating crane and replace the previous operator who had broken his leg. Tragedy struck as 10 of the 12 men in his crew were killed when his ship hit a mine.

Yeck started collecting memorabilia in 1989 after he took his first trip back to France since the end of the war. It was during the commemoration of the 45th Anniversary of D-Day. From there, one of the most profound military vehicle and memorabilia collections began in a pair of aluminum hangers he created after the war for his manufacturing business in Dundee.

"Mr. Yeck was a profound showman of military history," said professional auctioneer Kenny Lindsay. "This auction will provide the spotlight and stage that he deserves."

"This auction is much more than military vehicles. There are thousands of individual items. Everything from Civil War cannonballs to wagon wheels, fishing tackle and a portable military organ. Heck, there is even a back-to-back double-occupant military toilet. Whatever your budget is, this auction enables everyone to own a piece of history."

The auctions will take place at the museum, 579 Tecumseh Street in Dundee. All parking for the April 27 event will take place at Cabelas. Shuttle busses will be running throughout the day.

For more information, call Kenny Lindsay at 734-223-3277 or Auction Manager David Helmer at 734-368-1733.

Kaytech V4 Engine Topic at SAE Meet

The Mid-Michigan Section of SAE International will meet Monday, April 29, at the Lingenfelter Collection, 7819 Lochlin Drive, Brighton, starting with a 6 p.m. social hour and tour of the collection of more than 150 unique cars.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. and the main program beings promptly at 8 p.m.

This month's program is all about Katech V4 high-performance engines, presented by Fritz Kayle, Katech founder and CEO.

The Katech V4 is described by Kayle as an innovative, highly efficient, high-power-density and configurable engine to power owners' auto-sport, aviation, marine, ATV and industrial applications.

This light engine, which draws on the architecture of the Corvette LS series V8, offers a compact design that, according to Kayle, can be retrofitted into almost any application.

Reservations are required by noon on Thursday, April 25. Tickets can be purchased online at midmichigansae.org.
